Managing Employee Health Globally: The Business Imperative

Come learn why leading organizations such as American Express, Johnson & Johnson and Dell are implementing global health and wellness strategies. What is driving these initiatives? What is in the bottom line? What are the health issues and cultural differences that come into play? Do global health and wellness strategies bring value to my organization? Having worked with dozens of the world's leading companies on their Global Wellness Initiatives, Dr Friedman will discuss the benefits and pitfalls in these strategies.

Speaker: Dr. Lorna Friedman, Partner in Mercer's Global Health Management

Dr. Lorna Friedman is a Partner in Mercer's Global Health Management practice based out of the New York office. She is Board Certified in Pediatrics and licensed in New York State, with over 20 years of experience in health care.
